Dear,

The network of India offices of Freie Universität Berlin, Max Planck Society, and the University of Heidelberg is delighted to invite you to a web talk on "Sexual Harassment at Higher Education Institutions" on 22nd November at 16:00 pm IST.

Experts from Freie Universität Berlin, Max Planck Society, and the University of Heidelberg will discuss the current scenario of sexual harassment at Higher education institutions across the globe, steps needed to modify the perception of people to bring a change, the role of effective policies at national and international level to combat existing challenges.

Colleges and universities are supposed to establish conditions that are suitable for studying and working, free from sexual harassment. Sadly, concerns have become more common on college and university campuses. Sexual harassment is correlated with many negative outcomes, including depression, posttraumatic stress disorder (PTSD) symptoms, diminished mental health, perceived isolation and helplessness, internalized shame, nausea, and sleeplessness. It could also result in students' disinterest in studies and poor academic performance, which in turn may lead to students withdrawing from the university.

Dr. Sheela Suryanarayanan, Head, Centre for Women's Studies, School of Social Sciences, University of Hyderabad will moderate the discussion between Dr. Heike Pantelmann, Managing Director, The Margherita von Brentano Center for Gender Studies, Freie Universität Berlin, Dr. Ulla Weber, Central Gender Equality Officer, Administrative Headquarters of the Max Planck Society, München and Prof. Christiane Schwierien, Equal Opportunities Commissioner of Heidelberg University.

Don't miss this virtual global journey, fill out the google form by 20th November 2022.
